

FALL CVC sound boxes

By Jennifer Worrell

Ideas for Using These Sound Boxes

There are six sets of sound box task cards with twelve cards in each. One set has all the letters provided for each word. Students can tap each letter, make its sound, and blend the sounds to make the word. Each part of this activity is scaffolded for them. There are three sets with the beginning, ending, and vowel sound provided as a scaffold. One set has the beginning and ending sound, and students just have to give the middle sound. The final set has only blank boxes.

I printed, laminated, and cut these cards out. I have students tap the boxes to make the sound or slide a colored token in each box. Students can also write the letters in with a dry erase marker.

My fellow reading specialist at school creates sensory bins with these. She filled containers with leaves she gathered and hid sound box cards in them. Students found the cards and wrote the correct letters in the boxes for each word. The kids LOVED this activity!
